

1 PETER K. STRIS (SBN 216226)
peter.stris@strismaher.com
2 BRENDAN S. MAHER (SBN 217043)
brendan.maher@strismaher.com
3 VICTOR O'CONNELL (SBN 288094)
victor.oconnell@strismaher.com
4 KRISTINA KOURASIS (SBN 291729)
kristina.kourasis@strismaher.com
5 THOMAS E. LOGAN (SBN 307193)
tom.logan@strismaher.com
6 STRIS & MAHER LLP
725 South Figueroa Street, Suite 1830
7 Los Angeles, CA 90017
Telephone: (213) 995-6800
8 Facsimile: (213) 261-0299

9 SETH ZAJAC (SBN 285718)
s.zajac@sovhealth.com
10 SOVEREIGN ASSET MANAGEMENT, INC.
d/b/a SOVEREIGN HEALTH GROUP
11 1211 Puerta Del Sol, Suite 280
San Clemente, CA 92673
12 Telephone: (949) 276-5553
Facsimile: (949) 272-5797

13 Attorneys for Plaintiffs
14 DUAL DIAGNOSIS TREATMENT
CENTER, INC., et al.

15
16 UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
17 CENTRAL DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA
18 SOUTHERN DIVISION

19 DUAL DIAGNOSIS TREATMENT
CENTER, INC., a California
20 corporation, et al.,

21 Plaintiffs,

22 v.

23 BLUE CROSS OF CALIFORNIA d/b/a
ANTHEM BLUE CROSS, et al.,

24 Defendants.

Case No. SACV15-736 DOC (RNBx)

PLAINTIFFS' OPPOSITION TO DEFENDANTS' OMNIBUS
MOTION TO DISMISS
PLAINTIFFS' FIRST AMENDED COMPLAINT [ECF NO. 637]

Date: April 18, 2016
Time: 8:30 a.m.
Location: Courtroom 9D
Judge: Hon. David O. Carter

TABLE OF CONTENTS

1

2 TABLE OF AUTHORITIES .....iii

3 INTRODUCTION ..... 1

4 STATEMENT OF THE CASE ..... 2

5 LEGAL STANDARDS..... 4

6 ARGUMENT..... 6

7 I. There Is No Basis to Dismiss Count I..... 6

8 A. As the FAC Makes Clear, Plaintiffs Provided

9 Services to Insureds in Exchange for the Valid

Assignment of ERISA Rights ..... 6

10 B. As the FAC Makes Clear, Plaintiffs Put Defendants

11 on Notice of the Valid Assignments ..... 11

12 C. No Defendant Is Entitled to Dismissal of Count I

13 on Anti-Assignment Clause Grounds ..... 13

14 1. No Defendant has established that its anti-

15 assignment provision is valid and 16 enforceable against medical providers ..... 14

17 2. No defendant can possibly establish that its

18 anti-assignment provision is enforceable

19 against Plaintiffs ..... 16

20 II. There Is No Basis to Dismiss Counts II and III..... 20

21 A. Defendants Do Not Deny that They Are All ERISA

22 Fiduciaries Bound to Follow Specifically

23 Enumerated Claims Procedures..... 20

24 B. Plaintiffs Are Authorized to Assert Fiduciary

25 Claims to Remedy Defendants’ Flagrant Violation

26 of the Claims Regulations and Related Duties ..... 21

27 C. Defendants’ ‘Anti-Assignment’ and ‘Full Payment’

28 Arguments Have No Application to ERISA

Fiduciary Claims..... 25

D. Defendants’ Fiduciary Remedy Arguments Are

Wrong..... 28

III. There Is No Basis to Dismiss Count IV ..... 31

IV. Plaintiffs’ Jury Trial Demand Should Not Be Stricken..... 35

CONCLUSION..... 35

TABLE OF AUTHORITIES

Cases

1

2

3 24 Hour Fitness, Inc. v. Super. Ct.,
66 Cal. App. 4th 1199 (1998) ..... 7

4

5 Abilene Reg’l Med. Ctr. v. United Indus. Workers Health &
Benefits Plan, No. 06-10151, 2007 WL 715247 (5th Cir.
6 Mar. 6, 2007) ..... 16

7 Access Mediquip, L.L.C. v. UnitedHealthcare Ins. Co.,
698 F.3d 229 (5th Cir. 2012)..... 16

8 Acosta v. Pacific Enterprises,
950 F.2d 611 (9th Cir. 1991), amended on reh’g (Jan. 23 1992) ..... 31

9

10 Almasi v. Equilon Enterprises, LLC,
No. 5:10-CV-003458-EJD, 2012 WL 3945528 (N.D. Cal.
11 Sept. 10, 2012)..... 34

12 Almont Ambulatory Surgery Ctr., LLC v. UnitedHealth Group, Inc., 99 F. Supp. 3d 1110 (C.D. Cal. 2015) ..... 9, 16

13 Anderson v. PHH Mortgage,
No. SACV 12-01192-CJC, 2012 WL 4496341 (C.D. Cal.
14 Sept. 28, 2012)..... 32

15 Aral v. Earthlink, Inc.,
134 Cal. App. 4th 544 (2005) ..... 8

16

17 Ashcroft v. Iqbal,
556 U.S. 662 (2009) ..... 4, 5

18 Bank of the West v. Super. Ct.,
2 Cal. 4th 1254 (1992)..... 32

19

20 Bell Atl. Corp. v. Twombly,
550 U.S. 544 (2007) ..... 5

21 Bell v. Blue Cross of California,
131 Cal. App. 4th 211 (2005) ..... 34

22

23 BJC Health Sys. v. Columbia Cas. Co.,
348 F.3d 685 (8th Cir. 2003)..... 5

24 Brown v. Blue Cross Blue Shield of Tenn., Inc., No. 1:14-CV-00223, 2015 WL 3622338 (E.D. Tenn. June 9, 2015), appeal
25 docketed, No. 15-5739 (6th Cir. July 8, 2015) ..... 13

26 Cagle v. Bruner,
112 F.3d 1510 (11th Cir. 1997)..... 7

27

28 Care First Surg. Ctr. v. ILWA-PMA Welfare Plan,

1 2014 WL 6603761 (C.D. Cal. July 28, 2014)..... 8
 2 Cedars-Sinai Medical Ctr. v. Nat’l League of Postmasters of the United States, 497 F.3d 972 (9th Cir. 2007) ..... 35
 3 Cel-Tech Communications, Inc. v. Los Angeles Cellular Telephone
 4 Co., 20 Cal. 4th 163 (Cal. 1999)..... 33
 5 Centre for Neuro Skills v. Blue Cross of California, No. 1:13-CV-
 00743-LJO-JLT, 2013 WL 5670889 (E.D. Cal. Oct. 15, 2013) ..... 34
 6 CIGNA Corp. v. Amara,
 7 563 U.S. 421 (2011)..... passim
 8 Coast Plaza Doctors Hosp. v. UHP Healthcare,
 105 Cal. App. 4th 693 (2002) ..... 34
 9 Cockerell v. Title Ins. & Trust Co.,
 10 42 Cal. 2d 284 (1954) ..... 13
 11 Conkright v. Frommert,
 559 U.S. 506 (2010) ..... 26
 12 Davidowitz v. Delta Dental Plan of Cal., Inc.,
 13 946 F.2d 1476 (9th Cir. 1991)..... 6, 16
 14 Davis v. HSBC Bank Nev., N.A.,
 691 F.3d 1152 (9th Cir. 2012)..... 5, 14
 15 DeSoto v. Yellow Freight Systems, Inc.,
 16 957 F.2d 655 (9th Cir. 1992)..... 35
 17 Devlin v. Empire Blue Cross and Blue Shield,
 274 F.3d 76 (2d Cir. 2001)..... 19, 30
 18 Esoldi v. Esoldi,
 19 930 F. Supp. 1015 (D.N.J. 1996) ..... 17
 20 Filler v. Anthem Blue Cross,
 No. CV 12-8960-CAS (JEMx), 2012 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 182356
 21 (C.D. Cal. Dec. 17, 2012) ..... 28
 22 Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. v. Bruch,
 489 U.S. 101 (1989) ..... 27
 23 Grasso Enters., LLC v. Express Scripts, Inc.,
 24 809 F.3d 1033 (8th Cir. 2016)..... 23, 24
 25 Hal Roach Studios, Inc. v. Richard Feiner & Co.,
 896 F.2d 1542 (9th Cir. 1990)..... 5
 26 Heake v. Atl. Cas. Ins. Co.,
 27 29 N.J. Super. 242 (N.J. Super. Ct. App. Div. 1954) aff’d, 15
 N.J. 475 (1954) ..... 17

28

1 Heimeshoff v. Hartford Life & Accident Ins. Co., 134 S. Ct. 604 (2013).....27

2

3 Hermann Hosp. v. MEBA Medical & Benefits Plan,
 845 F.2d 1286 (5th Cir. 1988).....8

4 Hermann Hosp. v. MEBA Medical & Benefits Plan,
 959 F.2d 569 (5th Cir. 1992).....16

5

6 Home Owners' Loan Corp. v. Stevens,
 179 A. 330 (1935).....17

7 In re Webkinz Antitrust Litig.,
 695 F. Supp. 2d 987 (N.D. Cal. 2010).....34

8

9 Kennedy v. Conn. Gen. Life Ins. Co.,
 924 F.2d 698 (7th Cir.1991).....25

10 Kling v. Fidelity Management Trust Co.,
 323 F. Supp. 2d 132 (2004) .....31

11

12 Knievel v. ESPN,
 393 F.3d 1068 (9th Cir. 2005).....5

13 Kwikset Corp. v. Super. Court,
 51 Cal. 4th 310 (Cal. 2011) .....33

14

15 Lemons v. Reliance Standard Life Ins. Co.,
 534 F. App'x 162 (3d Cir. 2013).....28

16 Manzarek v. St. Paul Fire & Marine Ins. Co.,
 519 F.3d 1025 (9th Cir. 2008).....35

17

18 Marin Gen'l Hosp. v. Modesto & Empire Traction Co.,
 581 F.3d 941 (9th Cir. 2009).....35

19 Marolda v. Symantec Corp.,
 672 F. Supp. 2d 992 (N.D. Cal. 2009).....33

20

21 McColgan v. Mut. of Omaha Ins. Co.,
 4 F. Supp. 3d 1228 (E.D. Cal. 2014) .....5

22 Meadows v. Emps. Health Ins.,
 47 F.3d 1006 (9th Cir. 1995).....35

23

24 Metcalf v. Blue Cross Blue Shield of Michigan,
 57 F. Supp. 3d 1281 (D. Or. 2014) ..... 12, 23, 28

25 MHA, LLC v. Aetna Health, Inc.,
 2013 WL 705612 (D.N.J. 2013), abrogated in relevant part
 26 by N. Jersey Brain & Spine Ctr. v. Aetna, Inc., 801 F.3d 369
 (3d Cir. 2015).....9, 10

27

28 Misic v. Bldg. Serv. Emps. Health and Welfare Trust,

1 789 F.2d 1374 (9th Cir. 1986).....6, 7, 24
 2 Montefiore Med. Ctr. v. Teamsters Local 272, No. 09 Civ.
 3096(HB), 2009 WL 3787209 (S.D.N.Y. Nov. 12, 2009)..... 11
 3 Mosk v. Nat’l Research Co. Cal.,
 4 201 Cal. App. 2d 765 (Cal. 1962).....33
 5 N. Jersey Brain & Spine Ctr. v. Aetna, Inc.,
 801 F.3d 369 (3d Cir. 2015).....9, 10
 6 N. Shore-Long Island Jewish Health Care Sys., Inc. v. Multiplan,
 7 Inc., 953 F. Supp. 2d 419 (E.D.N.Y. 2013) ..... 11
 8 Nagrampa v. MailCoups, Inc.,
 469 F.3d 1257 (9th Cir. 2006).....8
 9 Nechis v. Oxford Health Plans, Inc.,
 421 F.3d 96 (2d Cir.2005).....17
 10 OSU Student All. v. Ray,
 11 699 F.3d 1053 (9th Cir. 2012).....5
 12 Pa. Chiropractic Ass’n v. Indep. Hosp. Indem. Plan, Inc.,
 13 802 F.3d 926 (7th Cir. 2015).....23, 24
 14 Pakovich v. Verizon, Ltd. Plan,
 653 F.3d 488 (7th Cir. 2011).....28
 15 Paragon Office Servs., LLC v. UnitedHealth Group, Inc., No. 3:11-
 16 CV-2205-D, 2012 WL 1019953 (N.D. Tex. Mar. 27, 2012) ..... 11
 17 Patterson v. ITT Consumer Fin. Corp.,
 14 Cal. App. 4th 1659 (1993) .....7
 18 Pell v. E.I. DuPont de Nemours & Co. Inc.,
 19 539 F.3d 292 (3d Cir. 2008).....18
 20 Pinnacle Armor, Inc. v. United States,
 648 F.3d 708 (9th Cir. 2011).....4
 21 Premier Health Ctr., P.C. v. UnitedHealth Grp.,
 22 No. 11-425 (ES), 2012 WL 1135608 (D.N.J. 2012)..... 10, 23
 23 Prichard v. Metro. Life Ins. Co.,
 783 F.3d 1166 (9th Cir. 2015).....15
 24 Productive MD, LLC v. Aetna Health, Inc.,
 25 969 F. Supp. 2d 901 (M.D. Tenn. 2013).....9, 19
 26 Providence Health Plan v. McDowell,
 361 F.3d 1243 (9th Cir. 2004).....28
 27 Raedeke v. Gibraltar Sav. & Loan Ass’n,
 28 10 Cal. 3d 665 (1974).....35

1
2 Rubio v. Capital One Bank,
613 F.3d 1195 (9th Cir. 2010)..... 32

3 Schonholz v. Long Island Jewish Med. Ctr.,
87 F.3d 72 (2d Cir. 1996)..... 18

4
5 Shroyer v. New Cingular Wireless Servs., Inc.,
606 F.3d 658 (9th Cir. 2010)..... 5, 8

6 Silk v. Metro. Life Ins. Co.,
310 F. App’x 138 (9th Cir. 2009) ..... 28

7
8 Silva v. Metro. Life Ins. Co.,
762 F.3d 711 (8th Cir. 2014)..... 30

9 Simmons Creek Coal Co. v. Doran,
142 U.S. 417 (1892) ..... 17

10
11 Smith v. Chase Mortg. Credit Group,
653 F. Supp. 2d 1035 (E.D. Cal. 2009) ..... 33

12 Solis v. Webb,
931 F. Supp. 2d 936 (N.D. Cal. 2012)..... 31

13
14 Spinedex Physical Therapy USA Inc. v. United Healthcare of Ariz., Inc., 770 F.3d 1282 (9th Cir. 2014)..... 9, 24

15 Spring E.R., LLC v. Aetna Life Ins. Co.,
No. 09-CV-2001, 2010 WL 598748 (S.D. Tex. Feb. 17, 2010) ..... 11

16
17 Steinman v. Hicks,
252 F. Supp. 2d 746 (C.D. Ill. 2003), aff’d, 352 F.3d 1101
(7th Cir. 2003)..... 31

18
19 Tiri v. Lucky Chances, Inc.,
226 Cal. App. 4th 231 (2014) ..... 8

20 Tokio Marine & Fire Ins. Co. v. Nat’l Union Fire Ins. Co., 91 F.2d 964 (2d Cir. 1937)..... 17

21
22 Trueview Surgery Ctr. One L.P. v. OneSubsea LLC Comprehensive Self-Insured Welfare Benefits Plan, No. 4:14-CV-2577, 2015
WL 4431408 (S.D. Tex. July 17, 2015)..... 16

23
24 United States v. Georgia-Pac. Co.,
421 F.2d 92 (9th Cir. 1970)..... 18

25 Valdez v. JPMorgan Chase Bank, N.A.,
No. EDCV 11-0935 DOC (DTBx), 2012 WL 995278
(C.D. Cal. Mar. 20, 2012)..... 32

26
27 Van Buskirk v. Cable News Network, Inc.,
284 F.3d 977 (9th Cir. 2002)..... 5

28

1 Statutes

2 Employee Retirement and Income Security Act of 1974, 29 U.S.C. § 1001 et seq.: ..... passim
 3 29 U.S.C. § 1002(8)..... 23, 25
 4 29 U.S.C. § 1002(9)..... 23
 5 29 U.S.C. § 1022 ..... 15
 6 29 U.S.C. § 1024 ..... 15
 7 29 U.S.C. § 1132(a) ..... 4
 8 29 U.S.C. § 1132(a)(2) ..... 4, 30
 9 29 U.S.C. § 1132(a)(3) ..... passim
 10 29 U.S.C. § 1133..... 20
 11 California Business & Professions Code § 17200 et seq. ..... 4
 12 Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 17204..... 32
 13 Cal. Civ. Code § 1573..... 33
 14 Cal. Ins. Code § 10133 ..... 33

15 Other Authorities

16 3 John N. Pomeroy, A Treatise on Equity Jurisprudence
 17 § 873 (5th ed. 1941)..... 17
 18 4 John N. Pomeroy, A Treatise on Equity Jurisprudence
 19 § 2097 (5th ed. 1941)..... 17
 20 Am. Jur. 2d Assignments § 116 ..... 9
 21 Restatement (Second) of Contracts § 338 (1981)..... 13

22 Rules

23 Fed. R. Civ. P. 8(a)(3) ..... 30
 24 Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(b)(6) ..... 4
 25 Fed. R. Civ. P. 15(a)..... 35
 26 Fed. R. Civ. P. 18 ..... 30

27
 28

1 Regulations

2 10 Cal. Code Regs. § 2695.7(c)(1) ..... 13

3 29 C.F.R. § 2560.503-1 et seq.: ..... passim

4 29 C.F.R. § 2560.503-1(a) ..... 23

5 29 C.F.R. § 2560.503-1(b) ..... 20

6 29 C.F.R. § 2560.503-1(b)(3) ..... 20

7 29 C.F.R. § 2560.503-1(b)(4) ..... 24

8 29 C.F.R. § 2560.503-1(b)(5) ..... 20

9 29 C.F.R. § 2560.503-1(f)(4) ..... 13

10 29 C.F.R. § 2560.503-1(i)(4) ..... 21, 28

11 29 C.F.R. § 2560.503-1(j) ..... 20

12 29 C.F.R. § 2560.503-1(l) ..... 21, 24

13 14
15
16
17
18 19 20 21
22
23
24
25
26
27
28

1 INTRODUCTION

2 This case is about health insurance benefits regulated by the Employee
3 Retirement and Income Security Act of 1974 (“ERISA”). Unlike ERISA pension
4 benefits, ERISA health care benefits are freely assignable. The rationale is simple:
5 by allowing health care providers to obtain assignments, they are more likely to treat
6 beneficiaries. As numerous courts have observed, provider-assignees stand in the 7 shoes of their patients and are therefore entitled to ERISA’s protections.

8 Chief among those protections is that fiduciaries must, when faced with a 9 benefits claim, carefully review the underlying ERISA plan documents, and either 10 award benefits or provide the claimant with a timely and reasoned denial. Silence, 11 or pro forma denials, are categorically barred. That has been the law for over four 12 decades. What happened here—and what has been pled with great specificity—is 13 that Defendants denied Plaintiffs’ claims not only without providing any reasoned 14 denial but also without consulting the relevant ERISA plan documents at all.

15 Defendants seek to excuse their misconduct by making one core argument in 16 a variety of guises. They say Plaintiffs’ assignments are not valid, and so they, as 17 plan fiduciaries, were entitled to ignore Plaintiffs completely. According to 18 Defendants, all of Plaintiffs’ ERISA claims should be dismissed on that basis. On 19 other grounds, Defendants seek to dismiss Plaintiffs’ alternative state law claim.

20 As explained herein, Defendants are wrong. Some of their arguments misstate
21 the relevant law. Some of their arguments misrepresent the allegations of Plaintiffs’
22 complaint. And some of their arguments cannot be resolved without first evaluating 23 hotly disputed questions of material fact. None of their arguments, however, can 24 possibly justify dismissal of any of the claims pled in the First Amended Complaint
25 (“FAC”). The motion to dismiss (“Omnibus Motion” or “MTD”) should be denied 26 in its entirety.

1 STATEMENT OF THE CASE

2 The Blue Cross Blue Shield Association and its 37 member companies
3 (collectively “Blue Cross”) provide or administer health insurance for roughly one
4 in every three Americans (“insureds”). FAC ¶ 1. Blue Cross is a dominant healthcare
5 player with tremendous market share. Id.

6 Out-of-network providers, like Plaintiffs, are those providers who have no
7 contractual relationship with Blue Cross. FAC ¶ 49. Instead, they offer their services
8 in exchange for the right to seek reimbursement from Blue Cross for services 9 rendered. FAC ¶¶ 49(a), 77(b). Providing healthcare services in exchange for the 10 right of reimbursement from the patient’s insurer has been a foundational component 11 of healthcare delivery in America for decades.

12 Nothing requires Blue Cross or the ERISA plans Blue Cross administers 13 (“ERISA Welfare Plans”) (collectively, or in any combination, “Defendants”) to 14 offer health insurance that covers services from out-of-network providers. FAC 15 ¶ 49(b). Rather, Defendants chose to write contracts offering that option; in 16 exchange, insureds agreed to pay higher premiums. FAC ¶¶ 49(a)-(b); 77(a)-(b).

17 At the same time, Blue Cross strongly disfavors the use of out-of-network
18 providers. FAC ¶¶ 2, 3, 77(a)-(b); 79. That is because such providers generally 19 deliver more expensive services not subject to Blue Cross’s negotiated network rates.
20 FAC ¶¶ 49(a), 77(b). Rather than take the bitter with the sweet, Blue Cross has 21 devised policies, which no other major insurer has adopted, to discourage out-of-22 network providers from accepting their insureds, and to force those providers to join 23 the vast Blue Cross network. FAC ¶¶ 2, 3, 75, 77(a)-(b); 78, 79.

24 At issue here is Defendants’ treatment of ERISA rights assigned by insureds
25 to their providers. FAC ¶¶ 3-5. The FAC alleges that Blue Cross systematically 26 refuses to pay providers directly when they submit assigned benefit claims for 27 services rendered. FAC ¶¶ 3, 71(b). And to make matters worse, Blue Cross refuses 28

1 to comply with applicable law requiring communication with out-of-network
2 providers who submit claims, including by failing to issue a written decision
3 explaining the basis on which payment has been denied. FAC ¶¶ 71(a)-(e); 82-88.
4 Instead, Blue Cross—after misleading providers about whether it will pay assigned
5 claims, FAC ¶ 45(c)—later insists on paying millions of dollars in assigned benefits
6 directly to patients, making it nearly impossible for providers to receive full 7 payment. FAC ¶¶ 3, 71(a)-(e), 81.

8 Plaintiffs are healthcare providers that offer mental health and substance abuse
9 treatment to patients. FAC ¶¶ 9-16, 24, 27, 28, 32, 41, 47, 56. Plaintiffs have no
10 contracts with Blue Cross. FAC ¶¶ 2, 3, 49(c), 77. Instead, Plaintiffs determine that 11 each patient is seeking treatment that is covered by her plan (a plan that is insured 12 or administered by Blue Cross) and Plaintiffs obtain an assignment of rights from 13 each insured before providing treatment. FAC ¶¶ 32, 40-48, 51-55, 97, 98, subpara.
14 (a) of ¶¶ 101-366. After treatment is rendered, Plaintiffs seek reimbursement from 15 Blue Cross. FAC subpara. (c) of ¶¶ 101-366. They do so by properly filling out and 16 submitting the industry-standard form required by Blue Cross to present a claim, the 17 UB-04. FAC ¶ 3-4, 64-68, 82, (c) of ¶¶ 101-366; 371.

18 For each claim submitted, Plaintiffs properly insert the letter “Y” in the box 19 called “ASG BEN” on that form; in the medical billing industry, this is how a 20 claimant indicates that it is seeking payment as a benefit assignee. FAC subpara. (c)
21 of ¶¶ 101-366. Of the many hundreds of industry-standard claim forms Plaintiffs 22 have submitted to Blue Cross, not once has Blue Cross ever responded with a request
23 to review the underlying assignment of benefits. FAC ¶¶ 69-71, 83, 87. Nor has it 24 ever written in response to explain the basis on which it has refused to pay Plaintiffs.
25 FAC ¶¶ 70-71(a)-(d); 83, 87.

26 The patients in this case all received insurance through employer-sponsored 27 plans subject to ERISA. FAC ¶¶ 4, 20, 22(1)-(158). Under ERISA, Plaintiffs seek to 28

1 enforce their valid assignments. FAC ¶¶ 5, 31, 95-366, 374. Defendants’ failure to 2 pay Plaintiffs for the medical services that they rendered is without basis in law or 3 equity, and is therefore remediable under 29 U.S.C. § 1132(a).<sup>1</sup> Plaintiffs also seek 4 injunctive and other non-monetary relief (pursuant to 29 U.S.C. §§ 1132(a)(2) and 5 (a)(3)) to remedy Defendants’ profound breaches of fiduciary duty. Defendants’
6 flagrant and continuing failure to comply with ERISA’s procedural obligations
7 entitles Plaintiffs to a wide variety of important non-monetary remedies, including
8 injunctive relief and fiduciary removal. FAC ¶ 379.<sup>2</sup> As an alternative to their ERISA
9 theories, Plaintiffs assert that Defendants’ practices constitute unlawful and unfair
10 competition that is actionable under California Business & Professions Code
11 § 17200 et seq. FAC ¶¶ 387-390.

12 LEGAL STANDARDS

13 To avoid dismissal under Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(b)(6), a plaintiff must “allege 14 ‘sufficient factual matter . . . to state a claim to relief that is plausible on its face.’”
15 Pinnacle Armor, Inc. v. United States, 648 F.3d 708, 721 (9th Cir. 2011) (quoting 16 Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 556 U.S. 662 (2009)). A claim has “facial plausibility when the 17 plaintiff pleads factual content that allows the court to draw the reasonable inference 18

---

19 <sup>1</sup> Plaintiffs’ “FIRST CLAIM FOR RELIEF” is labeled as “(Against All 20 Defendants—Seeking to Recover Benefits) (29 U.S.C. § 1132(a)(1)(B)).” FAC ¶¶ 21 95-374. That label notwithstanding, the facts alleged under the first claim (and in the 22 complaint overall), support monetary recovery not only pursuant to 29 U.S.C.
23 § 1132(a)(1)(B) but also—to the extent necessary—pursuant to 29 U.S.C.
24 § 1132(a)(3) under theories of reformation, estoppel, or surcharge. See infra 16-19, 25 29. Although Plaintiffs could, of course, seek leave to “relabel” (or otherwise amend) 26 that claim, that is not necessary under the federal rules. Complaints are to be 27 construed liberally, Bouse v. Bussey, 573 F.2d 548, 551 (9th Cir. 1977); complaints
28 need not cite the correct statutory provision, Johnson v. City of Shelby, Miss., 135 S.
Ct. 346, 346 (2014); and labels are to be disregarded where justice requires, Sateriale
v. R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., 697 F.3d 777, 788 n.4 (9th Cir. 2012).

<sup>2</sup> Federal regulations require benefit denials (including any failure to pay) to be written, specific, and reasoned, and it is well-settled that failure to follow these regulations is illegal. FAC ¶¶ 5, 30, 85-88. Defendants were obligated to follow these regulations every time Plaintiffs asked to be paid, and there can be no doubt that Defendants were so obligated regardless of the ultimate merit of Plaintiffs’ request.
FAC ¶¶ 5, 30, 85-88. See also infra 20-21 (discussing this issue).

1 that the defendant is liable for the misconduct alleged.” Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 556 U.S.
2 662, 678 (2009) (citing Bell Atl. Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 556 (2007)).

3 A court must accept the well-pleaded factual allegations of the complaint as 4 true and construe them in the light most favorable to plaintiffs. Id.; see also OSU
5 Student All. v. Ray, 699 F.3d 1053, 1061 (9th Cir. 2012). Dismissal is proper only in 6 the absence of a cognizable legal theory or sufficient supporting facts. See Shroyer
7 v. New Cingular Wireless Servs., Inc., 606 F.3d 658, 664 (9th Cir. 2010). Once the 8 pleading standard has been met, “even if it strikes a savvy judge that actual proof of 9 [the pled] facts is improbable, and that recovery is very remote and unlikely,” the 10 complaint should survive. Twombly, 550 U.S. at 556.

11 For a motion to dismiss on the pleadings, it is generally improper for the court
12 to consider any material outside of the pleadings. See Hal Roach Studios, Inc. v.
13 Richard Feiner & Co., 896 F.2d 1542, 1555 n.19 (9th Cir. 1990). Under the 14 “incorporation by reference” doctrine, a court may—but is not required to—look to 15 documents beyond the pleadings only if the contents of the document are pled and 16 no party questions the authenticity of the document. Davis v. HSBC Bank Nev., N.A., 17 691 F.3d 1152, 1160 (9th Cir. 2012) (citing Van Buskirk v. Cable News Network, Inc., 18 284 F.3d 977, 980 (9th Cir. 2002) and Knievel v. ESPN, 393 F.3d 1068, 1076 (9th 19 Cir. 2005)). The Court should not consider agreements incorporated by reference 20 when their completeness is in dispute. See BJC Health Sys. v. Columbia Cas. Co., 21 348 F.3d 685, 688-89 (8th Cir. 2003) (given dispute over what constituted the 22 complete contract, consideration of the offered documents was prejudicial error); cf.
23 McColgan v. Mut. of Omaha Ins. Co., 4 F. Supp. 3d 1228, 1232 (E.D. Cal. 2014)
24 (denying request for judicial notice where plaintiff challenged authenticity and 25 completeness of documents).

26
27
28

1 ARGUMENT

2 I. There Is No Basis to Dismiss Count I.

3 A. As the FAC Makes Clear, Plaintiffs Provided Services to Insureds
4 in Exchange for the Valid Assignment of ERISA Rights.

5 While Plaintiffs take pride in their efforts to assist people struggling with 6 chemical dependency or mental illness, they operate a for-profit business. Plaintiffs 7 maintain facilities with qualified staff and other costly features, in exchange for 8 payment. In the case of a patient with insurance, Plaintiffs agree to provide their 9 services in exchange for the valid assignment of the patient’s rights under ERISA.
10 Securing and enforcing such assignments are critical to Plaintiffs’ ability to receive 11 payment. Thus, Plaintiffs are careful to verify insurance coverage and obtain valid 12 assignments. FAC ¶¶ 40-46, 48, 51-55, 69-70.

13 Unlike pension benefits, ERISA permits assignments of health care benefits, 14 including to providers. Misic v. Bldg. Serv. Emps. Health and Welfare Trust, 789 F.2d 15 1374, 1377 (9th Cir. 1986) (permitting assignments of ERISA benefit claims to 16 providers). It is thus settled law in the Ninth Circuit that “[a] health care provider 17 with an allegedly valid assignment” may sue for benefits under, and receive the 18 protections of, ERISA. Davidowitz v. Delta Dental Plan of Cal., Inc., 946 F.2d 1476, 19 1478 (9th Cir. 1991). Plaintiffs seek precisely that.

20 1. As a matter of course, Plaintiffs require all patients to execute an 21 Assignment of Benefits that expressly assigns all her rights under ERISA, including 22 the right to pursue claims under 29 U.S.C. §§ 1132(a)(1)(B) and (a)(3). See FAC, 23 Ex. B (“Form B Assignment”). The Form B Assignment provides:

24 I, Policyholder, irrevocably assign, transfer and convey to Provider the 25 exclusive rights to benefits, insurance proceeds, or other monies
26 otherwise due to me for services rendered by Provider (“Benefits”)
27 from my insurer, employee benefit plan, welfare benefit plan,
28 government plan, tortfeasor or other liable third party (“Liable Third Parties”), and all administrative, arbitral, judicial or other rights I may have relating to the recovery of Benefits from Liable Third Parties, including but not limited to, my rights to . . . initiate and maintain

1           arbitral or judicial proceedings to enforce . . . [ERISA], including,
2           expressly, claims brought under ERISA §§ 502(a)(1)(B) and (a)(3), 3           including claims predicated on a breach of fiduciary duty; Medicare and 4           any other federal or state law . . . . I agree that any ambiguity regarding 5           the scope of this Agreement shall be construed in favor of assigning
6           Provider all rights that will assist it in recovering Benefits from Liable
7           Third Parties.

8 Id. See also FAC ¶ 53.

9           The Form B assignment language is so comprehensive that Defendants 10          concede it encompasses Plaintiffs' claims here. Defendants, however, attack the 11          Form B Assignment by claiming it is so clear and broad as to be "unconscionable" 12          and therefore invalid as a matter of law. MTD at 24-26. Defendants are wrong.

13          Unconscionable contracts must be grossly unfair both in the manner in which 14          they were agreed to (procedural unconscionability) and in their terms (substantive 15          unconscionability). See, e.g., Patterson v. ITT Consumer Fin. Corp., 14 Cal. App.
16          4th 1659, 1664 (1993). Nothing about the Form B Assignment is remotely
17          unconscionable, and thirty years of precedent is in accord.

18          Plaintiffs begin with substantive unconscionability and common sense.
19          Substantive unconscionability "involves contract terms that are so one-sided as to 20          shock the conscience, or that impose harsh or oppressive terms." 24 Hour Fitness,
21          Inc. v. Super. Ct., 66 Cal. App. 4th 1199, 1213 (1998). Assigning benefit rights to a 22          provider is not substantively unconscionable because doing so clearly advantages
23          the patient. As the Ninth Circuit has explained:

24               Health and welfare benefit trust funds are designed to finance health 25               care. Assignment of trust monies to health care providers results in 26               precisely the benefit the trust is designed to provide and [ERISA] is 27               designed to protect. Such assignments also protect beneficiaries by 28               making it unnecessary for health care providers to evaluate the solvency of patients before commencing medical treatment, and by eliminating the necessity for beneficiaries to pay potentially large medical bills and await compensation from the plan.

Misc., 789 F.2d at 1377.<sup>3</sup>

---

<sup>3</sup> Other courts agree. See Cagle v. Bruner, 112 F.3d 1510, 1515 (11th Cir. 1997)
("An assignment to a health care provider facilitates rather than hampers the employee's receipt of health benefits.") (quoting Hermann Hosp. v. MEBA Med. &

1 Despite these universally recognized advantages, Defendants assert
2 unconscionability on the grounds that the Form B Assignment limits patient recourse
3 against their plans. MTD at 26. Not only do Defendants provide no argument as to 4 why that (supposed) negative rises to the level of unconscionable, they also ignore
5 reality. Patients and the providers to whom they assign rights have the same interests:
6 both want the patient to receive treatment expeditiously and both want to obtain
7 insurer payment as conveniently as possible. And the patient, who assigns the right 8 to payment for a service, does not need recourse against her plan because she has 9 already received the service that the insurance covers.<sup>4</sup>

10 There is nothing unconscionable about assigning rights to a similarly 11 interested party better situated to handle the demanding paperwork associated with 12 obtaining benefits. That is why no court anywhere has ever held that an assignment 13 of medical benefits to a provider substantively injures beneficiaries, let alone so 14 much that such assignments are unconscionable. Indeed, if Defendants' radical 15 position is correct, then federal courts have been sanctioning unconscionable
16 contracts for decades. They have not. Defendants are wrong.<sup>5</sup>

---

18 Benefits Plan, 845 F.2d 1286 (5th Cir. 1988)); Care First Surg. Ctr. v. ILWA-PMA 19 Welfare Plan, 2014 WL 6603761, at *9 (C.D. Cal. July 28, 2014) (holding that 20 assignments “facilitate the receipt of health care benefits by beneficiaries”) (internal quotation marks omitted).

21 <sup>4</sup> Of the three cases Defendants cite in support of their position: Shroyer, v. New 22 Cingular Wireless Servs., Inc., 498 F.3d 976 (9th Cir. 2007); Nagrampa v.
MailCoups, Inc., 469 F.3d 1257 (9th Cir. 2006); and Aral v. Earthlink, Inc., 134 Cal.
App. 4th 544 (2005). None involves anything remotely analogous to health care assignments.

23 <sup>5</sup> Nor is there anything procedurally unconscionable about Form B. Procedural 24 unconscionability focuses on “oppression i.e., inequality of bargaining power and 25 absence of meaningful choice and surprise, i.e., the extent to which the supposedly 26 agreed-upon terms of the bargain are hidden . . . .” Tiri v. Lucky Chances, Inc., 226
27 Cal. App. 4th 231, 245 (2014) (citations omitted). There is no oppression here.
28 Prospective patients do not come to Plaintiffs for emergency services; they have every opportunity to obtain services elsewhere (e.g., with in-network providers who do not require assignments). Nor is there surprise. The terms of Form B are presented unambiguously and transparently in a single-page document. See FAC, Ex. B.
Defendants do not (and cannot) suggest otherwise.

1           2. For some patients, the FAC also alleges valid assignments on the basis
2 of an (earlier) Assignment of Benefits form which provides, in pertinent part:

3           I hereby authorize and request that payment of authorized insurance
4 company benefits be made on my behalf directly to [Plaintiff entity] for 5 the amount due to me for any medical or psychological/psychiatric 6 treatment or services that are rendered to me by [Plaintiff entity].

7           FAC ¶ 53, Ex. A (“Form A Assignment”). Defendants characterize the Form A
8 Assignment as a mere “authorization” for direct payment that assigns nothing. MTD
9 at 7. Again, Defendants are mistaken.

10           Form A, titled “Assignment of Benefits,” expressly and without reservation
11 authorizes direct payments to Plaintiffs. The Ninth Circuit has held such language 12 sufficient to constitute a valid assignment of a 29 U.S.C. § 1132(a)(1)(B) claim. In 13 Spinedex Physical Therapy USA Inc. v. United Healthcare of Ariz., Inc., 770 F.3d
14 1282, 1292 (9th Cir. 2014), the Court considered an assignment that conferred upon 15 the provider “the right to seek payment of claims directly from” the plans in question.
16 Because such language indicated patients’ intent “to assign . . . their rights to bring 17 suit [under 29 U.S.C. § 1132(a)(1)(B)] for payment of benefits,” the Ninth Circuit 18 deemed it valid.<sup>6</sup>

19           No case cited by Defendants compels the opposite conclusion. In fact, 20 Defendants’ lead case—MHA, LLC v. Aetna Health, Inc., 2013 WL 705612 (D. N.J.
21 2013), abrogated in relevant part by N. Jersey Brain & Spine Ctr. v. Aetna, Inc., 801
22 F.3d 369, 371 n.1, 372-73 (3d Cir. 2015)—shows that Plaintiffs are right. In MHA

23
24 <sup>6</sup> See also Almont Ambulatory Surgery Ctr., LLC v. UnitedHealth Group, Inc., 25 99 F. Supp. 3d 1110, 1130 (C.D. Cal. 2015) (finding that agreements explicitly 26 conveying “rights and benefits” under the relevant insurance policy” were valid 27 assignments of 29 U.S.C. § 1132(a)(1)(B) claims); Productive MD, LLC v. Aetna 28 Health, Inc., 969 F. Supp. 2d 901, 915 (M.D. Tenn. 2013) (holding that language authorizing direct payment to provider constituted a valid assignment of the patient’s right to sue for benefits). Cf. Am. Jur. 2d Assignments § 116 (“Use of the word ‘assign’ or ‘assignment’ is not essential . . . so the parties’ failure to use the word . . . is not fatal to the conclusion that they intended an assignment.”).

1 LLC, a provider-assignee brought suit to obtain reimbursement under 29 U.S.C.
2 § 1132(a)(1)(B). The basis for the assignment was the following language:

3 I authorize payment directly to [provider] for hospital medical 4 insurance benefits (from Medicare, Medicaid, commercial insurance, 5 worker’s compensation, auto insurance, etc.) that I may be entitled to 6 for the charges of the care/treatment provided to me.

7 Id. at *4. The district court dismissed the suit, reasoning that the above “authorize”
8 language was merely “an assignment of a right to payment” rather than an 9 “assignment of plan benefits.” Only the latter, it concluded, was sufficient to “permit
10 a provider to sue under 502(a).” Id. at *7. The Third Circuit disagreed.

11 In N. Jersey Brain & Spine Ctr., 801 F.3d 369, 370, the Third Circuit abrogated
12 all lower court decisions distinguishing between a right to receive payment and a 13 right to sue. In the words of the court of appeals:

14 We hold that as a matter of federal common law, when a patient assigns
15 payment of insurance benefits to a healthcare provider, that provider 16 gains standing to sue for that payment under ERISA § 502(a). An 17 assignment of the right to payment logically entails the right to sue for 18 non-payment.

19 Id. In so concluding, the Third Circuit was approving decisions like Premier Health
20 Ctr., P.C. v. UnitedHealth Grp., No. 11-425 (ES), 2012 WL 1135608, at *7-8 (D.
21 N.J. 2012). There, the district court explained that language requesting “direct 22 payment” to the provider “vest[ed] in the assignee (the provider) the right to receive 23 payment” and therefore “must logically include the ability to seek judicial 24 enforcement of that right.” Id.

25 In sum, both Form A and Form B both constitute valid assignments.<sup>7</sup>

26 <sup>7</sup> Defendants’ litigation position is in tension with itself. On the one hand, 27 Defendants argue that Form B is unconscionable because of its broad language. On 28 the other, Defendants argue Form A does not qualify as an assignment because it lacks broad language. In Defendants’ Kafkaesque world, apparently no provider assignment is valid under ERISA. That is clearly not the law.

1           B. As the FAC Makes Clear, Plaintiffs Put Defendants on Notice of 2           Their Valid Assignments.

3           Faced with the pitch-perfect Form B Assignment, Defendants next assert that 4 they were not required to pay Plaintiffs “because Plaintiffs did not provide sufficient
5 notice of the alleged assignments’ scope.” MTD at 21. According to Defendants, 6 Plaintiffs were required to provide a copy of each executed assignment. Id. at 22.
7 Any alternative finding, they say, would “place the provider’s interests above that of 8 the member—a result anathema to ERISA’s purpose.” Id. at 23. Defendants offer
9 three arguments in support. Each is meritless.

10           First, Defendants claim, without further elaboration, that the notice they 11 received was not of an “assignment” because “[m]erely checking the box on a claim 12 form is, at most, an assertion that some kind of patient signed form providing some 13 form of authorization or direction exists.” Id. at 22. That is plainly wrong as a matter
14 of law. Courts routinely hold that UB-04 forms containing a “Y” in the “ASG BEN”
15 field indicate valid ERISA assignments.<sup>8</sup> In resisting, Defendants should and do 16 know better. As a member of the National Uniform Billing Committee, the 17 organization that created and promulgated the UB-04 form, Blue Cross Blue Shield
18 Association and its members are uniquely positioned to know the form and what it
19 means. FAC ¶¶ 65-67. Defendants clearly understood the well-established meaning 20 of “Y” in the “ASG BEN” field. And, in any event, Defendants’ self-serving plea of 21 ignorance is a fact-based contention that cannot be adjudicated at the pleading stage.

22
23
24           <sup>8</sup> See, e.g., Montefiore Med. Ctr. v. Teamsters Local 272, No. 09 Civ. 3096(HB), 25 2009 WL 3787209, at *5 (S.D. N.Y. Nov. 12, 2009) (provider had standing as 26 assignee to bring ERISA claim based solely on UB-04 form); Paragon Office Servs.,
27 LLC v. UnitedHealth Group, Inc., No. 3:11-CV-2205-D, 2012 WL 1019953, at *4-5
28 (N.D. Tex. Mar. 27, 2012) (similar); Spring E.R., LLC v. Aetna Life Ins. Co., No. 09-
CV-2001, 2010 WL 598748, at *3-4 (S.D. Tex. Feb. 17, 2010) (similar); *N. Shore-
Long Island Jewish Health Care Sys., Inc. v. Multiplan, Inc.*, 953 F. Supp. 2d 419, 434-36 (E.D. N.Y. 2013) (describing UB-04 form and “the telltale ‘Y’” as indication of an assignment).

1 Second, Defendants claim that, even if they had actual notice, Plaintiffs were 2 still required to give them a copy of each executed assignment. MTD at 22.
3 Defendants cite no authority for their invented rule that one must present a signed
4 agreement “in order to impose a duty on the obligor to render performance to it.”
5 MTD at 22. That is because, as Defendants know, the only authority on point is to 6 the contrary. In Metcalf v. Blue Cross Blue Shield of Michigan, Blue Cross Blue
7 Shield of Michigan and others argued that the plaintiff provider could not rely on 8 assignments of which they did not receive copies. 57 F. Supp. 3d 1281, 1295 (D. Or.
9 2014). The court squarely rejected that argument, explaining:

10 [A] debtor must honor an assignment upon receiving notice of the 11 assignment. To be bound by the Assignments, the Plan did not need to 12 receive copies of the actual assignments, but only notice that they 13 existed . . . . Therefore, it is irrelevant whether Metcalf sent copies of 14 the Assignments and Designations to the Plan.

15 Id.<sup>9</sup>

16 Third, Defendants resort to a misguided policy argument. They say honoring 17 the “assignment” field on the UB-04 form “would subject payors to inconsistent and 18 duplicative demands from purported assignees and assignors.” MTD at 23.
19 According to Defendants:

20 Under Plaintiffs’ theory, a payor presented with a checked box must 21 take a provider at its word that a valid and broad assignment was made 22 and pay the provider in short order, even while risking the ire of a 23 patient who later files a suit under 29 U.S.C. § 1132(a)(1)(B) against 24 the payor claiming that he never assigned any of his legal rights. . . .

25 Id. (emphasis added).

---

26 <sup>9</sup> The Metcalf decision is particularly damning to the Blue Cross Defendants
27 because BCBS Michigan had previously argued the exact same thing in a related 28 case, lost for the same reasons, and disregarded the court’s legal conclusions. Id. at 1290 (parties in previous case “strenuously disagree as to whether Metcalf is entitled to recover benefits which defendants have already paid to the Plan’s participants after receiving notice of assignments”); id. at 1291 (“Convinced that this court reached the wrong decision in Metcalf I, defendants continue to disregard the assignments from the participants to Metcalf and pay benefits to the participants, rather than directly to Metcalf.”).

1 That argument is disingenuous at best. As Defendants know, a payor who 2 needs additional information to process a claim can simply ask for it before paying.
3 Both ERISA and state law expressly give payors additional time under such 4 circumstances. See, e.g., 29 C.F.R. § 2560.503-1(f)(4) (process tolled until claimant
5 responds to request for additional information); 10 Cal. Code Regs. § 2695.7(c)(1)
6 (similar). Defendants never requested additional information from Plaintiffs about 7 any assignment before choosing to dishonor it.

8 Even if the assignments were later held invalid, Defendants would have 9 discharged their obligations by paying Plaintiffs. Indeed, it is black-letter law that 10 any obligor who mistakenly pays an apparent obligee is protected “if he renders 11 performance . . . without knowledge or reason to know that the appearance is false.”
12 Restatement (Second) of Contracts § 338 (1981).<sup>10</sup>

13 C. No Defendant Is Entitled to Dismissal of Count I on Anti- 14 Assignment Clause Grounds.

15 Next, Defendants argue that “[a] substantial number of the underlying claims
16 alleged in the FAC are barred by anti-assignment clauses contained in the ERISA 17 plans.” MTD at 16. Of course, no document including an anti-assignment clause was 18 attached to the FAC. Numerous Defendants, however, have filed declarations with 19 the Court attaching one or more documents that allegedly contain a valid and 20 enforceable anti-assignment clause. See O’Connell Decl., Chart 1 (identifying, by 21

---

22 <sup>10</sup> Defendants strain to avoid this conclusion by repeatedly citing a single 60-23 year-old case for the unremarkable proposition that an assignment protects an 24 obligor from later claims by the obligee. See, e.g., MTD at 22, 23 (citing Cockerell
25 v. Title Ins. & Trust Co., 42 Cal. 2d 284, 292 (1954)). In that case, there was no 26 evidence that the purported assignor had any connection to the company that owned 27 the note, meaning that there was no evidence that he had authority to act on behalf 28 of the obligee. Cockerell, 42 Cal. 2d at 291-92. In any event, Plaintiffs’ patients here executed clear and unambiguous assignments of their ERISA benefits, largely freeing Defendants of the risk of incurring their “ire” later on. Defendants’ reliance on a footnote in Brown v. Blue Cross Blue Shield of Tenn., Inc. is accordingly misplaced. No. 1:14-CV-00223, 2015 WL 3622338, at *6, n.6 (E.D. Tenn. June 9, 2015), appeal docketed, No. 15-5739 (6th Cir. July 8, 2015).

1 name and ECF Number, each document filed by—or on behalf of—98 of the 2 remaining 147 ERISA Welfare Plan Defendants).<sup>11</sup>

3 Defendants ask this Court to “incorporate by reference” these documents into 4 the FAC. But this Court has no duty to consider documents that were not attached to 5 the FAC, and it should decline to do so here. Their completeness is in dispute, and 6 Plaintiffs cannot agree to their authenticity. See Davis, 691 F.3d at 1159-60. If this 7 Court decides to consider these documents, however, none can possibly warrant the 8 dismissal of Count I against any Defendant for two reasons:

- 9 1. No Defendant has established that its anti-assignment provision 10 is valid and enforceable against medical providers.

11 Defendants explain at length the uncontroversial point that anti-assignment 12 clauses in ERISA plans may be valid and enforceable. MTD at 16-18. What 13 Defendants fail to mention, however, are any of the critical procedural requirements 14 that must be established for a given anti-assignment clause to in fact be valid and 15 enforceable. That is fatal to Defendants’ position because no Defendant has met 16 those requirements. See O’Connell Decl., Chart 2 (indicating which procedural flaws 17 apply to each ERISA Welfare Plan Defendant):

18 Requirement 1. To be valid and enforceable, an anti-assignment provision 19 must be found within the plan’s written instrument that is mandated by ERISA.
20 29 U.S.C. § 1102 (plan must be “established and maintained pursuant to a written 21 instrument”); Holmes v. Colorado Coal. for Homeless Long Term Disability Plan, 22 762 F.3d 1195, 1200 (10th Cir. 2014) (holding that “the requirements of an ERISA
23 plan must be based on the terms of the plan document”). 124 of the 147 ERISA
24 Welfare Plan Defendants have offered no written instrument containing an anti-25 assignment provision. See O’Connell Decl., Chart 2 (gray boxes) (identifying 50 26

27 <sup>11</sup> Plaintiffs named 157 ERISA Welfare Plans as defendants in the FAC. Ten of 28 those defendants have since been voluntarily dismissed.

1 ERISA Welfare Plan Defendants who offered no documents of any kind); id. (column
2 1) (identifying an additional 75 who introduced no valid written instrument).<sup>12</sup>

3 Requirement 2. To be enforceable, an anti-assignment provision must not be 4 contradicted by other language in the “written instrument.” That means the entire
5 written instrument must be introduced into evidence. 10 of the remaining 23 ERISA
6 Welfare Plan Defendants fail this requirement. See O’Connell Decl., Chart 2
7 (column 2) (identifying 10 ERISA Welfare Plan Defendants who offered documents
8 that make clear they are only part of the written instrument).

9 Requirement 3. To be enforceable, an anti-assignment provision must also be 10 properly described in an ERISA-compliant summary plan description (“SPD”).
11 29 U.S.C. § 1022(a)-(b); 29 C.F.R. § 2520.102-3; Osberg v. Foot Locker, Inc., No.
12 07 CIV. 1358 KBF, 2015 WL 5786523, at *29 (S.D.N.Y. Oct. 5, 2015) (reforming 13 plan because of nondisclosure in an SPD). At least 65 of the 147 ERISA Welfare 14 Plan Defendants offer no SPD. See O’Connell Decl., Chart 2 (column 3) (identifying 15 65 ERISA Welfare Plan Defendants who failed to offer an SPD).

16 Requirement 4. Any ERISA Welfare Plan Defendant seeking to interpose an 17 anti-assignment provision as a defense must prove that it furnished the relevant SPD
18 to the participant-assignee in compliance with 29 U.S.C. §§ 1022(a), 1024(b) and 29
19 C.F.R. § 2520.104b-1. Every one of the 148 ERISA Welfare Plan Defendants fails
20 this requirement. See O’Connell Decl., Chart 2 (column 4).

21

22

---

23 <sup>12</sup> Some of these Defendants have introduced either a summary plan description 24 (“SPD”) or non-ERISA contract that contains an anti-assignment provision. Those 25 documents, however, are of no help to Defendants because an anti-assignment 26 provision must be included in the written instrument in order for it to be valid and 27 enforceable. See CIGNA Corp. v. Amara, 563 U.S. 421, 438 (2011). The Ninth 28 Circuit recently left open the controversial question of whether, in some cases, an “SPD [can serve] as the one and only formal plan document.” *Prichard v. Metro.
Life Ins. Co.*, 783 F.3d 1166, 1170 (9th Cir. 2015). But any Defendant that intends to press that position cannot possibly do so at this stage of litigation without sufficient discovery (to confirm the absence of other plan documents) as well as specific briefing on that complex legal question.

1 Even if one of the ERISA Welfare Plan Defendants could satisfy all of the 2 procedural requirements set forth above, that Defendant would have to establish that 3 its anti-assignment provision was not substantively deficient. That requires that the 4 anti-assignment provision be “express.” Davidowitz, 946 F.2d at 1481. And it
5 requires that the provision clearly apply to the type of assignments at issue here.<sup>13</sup>
6 As mentioned above, 98 ERISA Welfare Plan Defendants offer some document
7 allegedly containing an anti-assignment provision. In 64 of those instances, however,
8 the alleged anti-assignment provision does not unambiguously apply to Plaintiffs.
9 See Stris Decl., Chart 3 (columns 2-4) (identifying three broad reasons why asserted 10 language is substantively deficient).

11 2. No defendant can possibly establish that its anti-assignment
12 provision is enforceable against Plaintiffs.

13 In the unlikely event that an ERISA Welfare Plan Defendant has offered
14 documents that this Court believes establish the existence of a valid and enforceable
15 anti-assignment provision as a matter of law, dismissal of Count I against such a 16 Defendant would still be unwarranted here. As explained in detail below (infra 17-17 19), Plaintiffs have articulated a theory of fiduciary breach that—if successful—will 18 justify reformation of the ERISA plans at issue (to excise any otherwise valid and 19 enforceable anti-assignment provision) or equitably estop Defendants from asserting

20
21
22
23
24
25
26
27
28

---

<sup>13</sup> See, e.g., Hermann Hosp. v. MEBA Med. & Benefits Plan, 959 F.2d 569, 574-75 (5th Cir. 1992) (“Hermann II”) overruled on a different ground by Access Mediquip, L.L.C. v. UnitedHealthcare Ins. Co., 698 F.3d 229 (5th Cir. 2012) (en banc) (per curiam) (holding that a facially comprehensive anti-alienation clause was insufficient to bar medical provider assignments). See also Abilene Reg’l Med. Ctr. v. United Indus. Workers Health & Benefits Plan, No. 06-10151, 2007 WL 715247 (5th Cir. Mar. 6, 2007) (reaffirming the core holding of Hermann II); Trueview Surgery Ctr. One L.P. v. OneSubsea LLC Comprehensive Self-Insured Welfare Benefits Plan, No. 4:14-CV-2577, 2015 WL 4431408 (S.D. Tex. July 17, 2015) (discussing and applying Herman II); Almont Ambulatory Surgery Ctr., LLC v. UnitedHealth Group, Inc., No. 14-02139 (Apr. 10, 2015) (ECF 1393) (same).

1 an anti-assignment clause defense.<sup>14</sup> For that reason, Count I cannot be dismissed
2 against any Defendant.

3 In order to appreciate this point, a brief discussion of ERISA’s reformation
4 and equitable estoppel remedies is necessary. The United States Supreme Court 5 recently made clear that misleading conduct on the part of fiduciaries, whether in the 6 claim handling context or otherwise, entitles plaintiffs to pursue “appropriate 7 equitable relief” under 29 U.S.C. § 1132(a)(3), including the remedies of 8 “reformation” and “estoppel.” CIGNA Corp. v. Amara, 563 U.S. 421 (2011).

9 Reformation is an equitable remedy where the subject instrument—here, the 10 relevant plan—is reformed to reflect the understanding of the misled party. Id. at 11 1879; 4 John N. Pomeroy, A Treatise on Equity Jurisprudence § 2097 (5th ed. 1941).
12 Reformation is appropriate where the victimized party’s misunderstanding results
13 from the “fraud or inequitable conduct” of the defendant.<sup>15</sup> Inequitable conduct need 14 not rise to the level of fraud.<sup>16</sup>

15 As the FAC alleges in great detail, Defendants’ conduct here was profoundly 16 inequitable and likely constitutes fraud. Defendants engaged in a scheme to take 17

---

18 <sup>14</sup> Whether relief such as reformation or estoppel under 29 U.S.C. § 1132(a)(3) is 19 conceived of as an interim step in vindicating a 29 U.S.C. § 1132(a)(1)(B) benefits
20 claim, or as an alternative channel of relief, need not be resolved, as Plaintiffs holds
21 both claims by express assignment and the FAC pleads the predicate facts to support
22 either theory. See supra 4 n.1.

23 <sup>15</sup> See, e.g., Simmons Creek Coal Co. v. Doran, 142 U.S. 417, 435 (1892) (fraud 24 or inequitable conduct sufficient for reformation); Home Owners’ Loan Corp. v.
25 Stevens, 179 A. 330, 331-32 (1935) (same); Heake v. Atl. Cas. Ins. Co., 29 N.J. Super.
26 242, 260 (N.J. Super. Ct. App. Div. 1954) aff’d, 15 N.J. 475 (1954) (same).

27 <sup>16</sup> See, e.g., Nechis v. Oxford Health Plans, Inc., 421 F.3d 96, 103 (2d Cir. 2005)
28 (recognizing conduct “violative of ERISA” as a basis for reformation); Tokio Marine & Fire Ins. Co. v. Nat’l Union Fire Ins. Co., 91 F.2d 964, 966 (2d Cir. 1937) (finding reformation in the aftermath of “a wrongful representation [that was] unmalicious and nonfraudulent”); Esoldi v. Esoldi, 930 F. Supp. 1015, 1021 (D.N.J. 1996) (explaining that “the fact that the [misunderstanding] was induced or contributed to in some way by the other party is generally sufficient to justify reformation”); 3 John
N. Pomeroy, A Treatise on Equity Jurisprudence § 873 at 421 (5th ed. 1941) (observing that reformation-triggering conduct includes “obtaining an undue advantage by means of some intentional act or omission that was unconscientious”).

1 advantage of Plaintiffs by not telling them (and, Plaintiffs intend to prove, in many
2 cases affirmatively misleading them) that the patients at issue were members of plans
3 with alleged anti-assignment provisions. See, e.g., FAC ¶¶ 70, 71, 75, 76, 77, 80, 81.
4 That misrepresentation impelled Plaintiffs to provide millions of dollars in services
5 on the understanding they could collect directly from a responsible and liquid party.
6 See, e.g., FAC ¶¶ 5-374.

7         The frequency and consistency with which Plaintiffs were kept in the dark, at 8 every possible stage, is no coincidence. The FAC provides detailed allegations about 9 hundreds of claims. FAC ¶¶ 101-366. In discovery, Plaintiffs intend to present and 10 uncover evidence—including records of phone calls with Defendants’
11 representatives—to show that what happened here was widespread and intentional.
12 At the pleading stage, there can be no doubt that what Plaintiffs have alleged, if 13 proven, would constitute fraud or inequitable and misleading conduct sufficient to 14 warrant reformation, nullifying the anti-assignment provisions Defendants claim 15 justify dismissal of Count I.

16         The facts pled in the FAC also support holding Defendants estopped from 17 relying on the anti-assignment provisions they refused to disclose for so long.
18 “Equitable estoppel operates to place the person entitled to its benefit in the same 19 position he would have been in had the representations been true.” Amara, 563 U.S.
20 at 441 (internal citations omitted). Estoppel requires a promise or misrepresentation
21 by the defendant, reliance by the plaintiff, resulting injury, and injustice in permitting
22 the defendant to not be held to its word.<sup>17</sup> Indeed, the nature of Defendants’
23 misconduct—not only engaging in misleading representations and omissions over 24 an “extended course of dealing,” Pell v. E.I. DuPont de Nemours & Co. Inc., 539
25 F.3d 292, 303-04 (3d Cir. 2008), but also taking precisely those misleading actions

---

27         <sup>17</sup> Schonholz v. Long Island Jewish Med. Ctr., 87 F.3d 72, 78-79 (2d Cir. 1996);
28 United States v. Georgia-Pac. Co., 421 F.2d 92, 96 (9th Cir. 1970).

1 that Defendants “should have expected to induce action or forbearance on the 2 plaintiff’s part,” Devlin v. Empire Blue Cross and Blue Shield, 274 F.3d 76, 86 (2d
3 Cir. 2001)—qualifies as the “extraordinary circumstances” under which courts often
4 find estoppel. See, e.g., Productive MD, LLC v. Aetna Health, Inc., 969 F. Supp. 2d
5 901, 925 (M.D. Tenn. 2013) (insurer equitably estopped from contesting assignment
6 of ERISA-governed claims).

7 Defendants spend several pages arguing that Plaintiffs cannot (as a matter of 8 law) show waiver. MTD at 19-21. But waiver is a fact-based issue. Plaintiffs allege, 9 among other things, that numerous Defendants told Plaintiffs that these claims were 10 assignable. FAC ¶ 45. The idea that telling a Plaintiff that a claim is assignable, and 11 then not raising the anti-assignment provision during a mandated claims regulation 12 process (or otherwise), cannot qualify as an “intentional relinquishment of a known 13 right” makes no sense. In any event, as Plaintiffs explained above, Defendants’ 14 conduct justifies the imposition of the equitable remedies of reformation or estoppel, 15 which provide similar relief but do not depend on the voluntary relinquishment of a 16 right. See also FAC ¶ 70 (seeking to set aside anti-assignment provisions by waiver, 17 estoppel or otherwise).<sup>18</sup>

18 19 20 21
22
23
24
25
26
27
28

---

<sup>18</sup> As Plaintiffs explain in response to individual motions filed by a handful of Welfare Plan Defendants, plan defendants cannot escape liability by blaming Blue Cross. Important remedies that Plaintiffs seek—waiver, reformation, and estoppel—rest on the idea that, because of what transpired in the course of dealing between the parties, it would be inequitable to hold the victim to the terms of the underlying contract. This does not change if the a plan fiduciary used an agent (here, Blue Cross). Moreover, as the incredible scope of the misconduct makes clear—i.e., Blue Cross denying hundreds of claims from one provider (and almost certainly thousands more across the country) without ERISA process, including where the plan did not bar assignments—there is essentially no chance that a prudent plan fiduciary could have missed what was systematically occurring. Such is directly actionable both as a failure of prudential oversight and through ERISA’s co-fiduciary provisions. See 29 U.S.C. § 1105(a)(2) (a co-fiduciary is liable “if failure to comply with section 1104(a)(1) of this title . . . has enabled such other fiduciary to commit a breach”).

1 II. There Is No Basis to Dismiss Counts II and III.

2 Plaintiffs assert two independent ERISA fiduciary claims (Counts II and III).
3 The Omnibus Motion fundamentally misconstrues those Counts and, consequently,
4 asserts bases for their dismissal that are easily rejected.

5 A. Defendants Do Not Deny that They Are All ERISA Fiduciaries
6 Bound to Follow Specifically Enumerated Claims Procedures.

7 To further its core purpose of ensuring that benefit promises are honored,
8 ERISA contains procedures designed to ensure that claimants seeking benefits are 9 treated fairly and transparently. Specifically, ERISA mandates that all plans “provide 10 adequate notice in writing to any participant or beneficiary whose claim for benefits 11 under the plan has been denied, setting forth the specific reasons for such denial. . . .”
12 29 U.S.C. § 1133 (authorizing the Secretary of Labor to promulgate regulations 13 implementing this mandate).

14 The implementing regulations specifically require every ERISA plan to have 15 “reasonable procedures governing the filing of benefit claims, notification of benefit 16 determinations, and appeal of adverse benefit determinations. . . .” 29 C.F.R.
17 § 2560.503-1(b). Those reasonable procedures must, inter alia, “not contain any 18 provision, and not [be] administered in a way, that unduly inhibits or hampers the 19 initiation or processing of claims for benefits.” 29 C.F.R. § 2560.503-1(b)(3). And 20 they must also “contain administrative processes and safeguards designed to ensure 21 and to verify that benefit claim determinations are made in accordance with 22 governing plan documents. . . .” 29 C.F.R. § 2560.503-1(b)(5).

23 The mandated procedures described above are designed to prevent plans from 24 using silence or stonewalling to frustrate claimants. For example: when presented 25 with any claim, a fiduciary who does not intend to pay is required to provide the 26 claimant with written or electronic notification of the plan’s “adverse benefit 27 determination.” 29 C.F.R. § 2560.503-1(j). And that notification must enumerate the 28

1 specific reason(s) for the adverse benefit determination, identify the specific plan
2 provision(s) on which the adverse benefit determination is based, and describe the 3 procedures for appealing the adverse decision. Id.

4 A fiduciary cannot sidestep the regulations by simply not issuing a decision
5 even if it believes that the claimant is not an eligible beneficiary. Indeed, the term 6 adverse benefit determination is specifically defined to include any “failure to 7 provide or make payment (in whole or in part) . . . that is based on a determination
8 of a participant’s or beneficiary’s eligibility. . . .” 29 C.F.R. § 2560.503-1(i)(4).

9 The upshot? When presented with any claim by an ERISA participant or 10 beneficiary, fiduciaries must follow the above claims procedures. Not doing so is a 11 breach of fiduciary duty that is remediable in a lawsuit that may be brought by the 12 aggrieved participant or beneficiary. See 29 C.F.R. § 2560.503-1(l) (if a fiduciary 13 does not comply with § 2560.503-1, the “claimant shall be deemed to have exhausted
14 the administrative remedies available under the plan and shall be entitled to pursue 15 any available remedies under section 502(a)”) (emphasis added).

16 B. Plaintiffs Are Authorized to Assert Fiduciary Claims to Remedy
17 Defendants’ Flagrant Violation of the Claims Regulations and 18 Related Duties.

19 Plaintiffs unquestionably have standing to assert their ERISA fiduciary 20 claims. As specifically alleged in the FAC, every insured to whom Plaintiffs 21 provided services was an ERISA participant or beneficiary. FAC ¶ 20. And as 22 specifically alleged in the FAC, Plaintiffs or their agents obtained an assignment
23 from every single insured. FAC ¶ 53. Both the prior (Form A) and current (Form B)
24 assignments used by Plaintiffs are attached as Exhibits A and B to the FAC.

25 As explained above (supra 6-7), the primary assignment involved in this 26 litigation (Form B) expressly assigns to Plaintiffs the right to bring all benefit and 27 all fiduciary claims. See also FAC, Ex. B (assigning “all” rights under ERISA, 28 including claims “predicated on a breach of fiduciary duty”). Thus, it is beyond any

1 serious dispute that Plaintiffs have standing to assert any colorable fiduciary breach
2 claim derived from an insured who signed the Form B assignment.<sup>19</sup>

3 As explained above (supra 9-10), the prior assignment used by Plaintiffs 4 (Form A) expressly assigns to Plaintiffs the right to bring all benefit claims pursuant 5 to 29 U.S.C. § 1132(a)(1)(B). As explained in detail below (infra 23-24), anyone
6 with a colorable right to benefits under 29 U.S.C. § 1132(a)(1)(B) is expressly
7 authorized by ERISA (defining “beneficiary”) and its implementing regulations
8 (defining “claimant”) to bring a related fiduciary breach claim. Specifically: anyone 9 whose colorable benefit claim is ignored (or otherwise mishandled) is authorized to 10 sue under ERISA not only to recover the benefit but also to remedy the procedural 11 misconduct of the fiduciary. That is precisely what Plaintiffs have done here. See, 12 e.g., FAC ¶¶ 4, 84-88 (pleading, in detail, the factual and statutory basis for Plaintiffs’
13 standing to assert fiduciary breach claims).<sup>20</sup>

14
15 <sup>19</sup> Defendants concede (as they must) that the Form B assignment was intended 16 to assign all 29 U.S.C. § 1132(a)(3) fiduciary claims. Defendants insist, however, 17 that because Form B’s purpose is to ensure that Plaintiffs are “paid for [their] 18 services,” and to “recover[] Benefits,” it was not intended to assign 29 U.S.C. § 19 1132(a)(2) claims. MTD at 11-12. But Defendants’ lead case—Klamath-Lake
20 Pharm. Ass’n v. Klamath Med. Serv. Bureau, 701 F.2d 1276 (9th Cir. 1983)— 21 illustrates Defendants’ flawed interpretation. At issue in Klamath Lake was the 22 purported assignment of antitrust claims. The district court concluded that the initial 23 paragraph of the assignment revealed the parties’ intent to cover Sherman Act claims, 24 but not other forms of antitrust claims. Klamath-Lake, 701 F.2d at 1283. The Ninth 25 Circuit reversed, holding instead that the assignments effectuated a full assignment
26 of all antitrust claims. Id. Thus, while it is true the judicial task for interpreting 27 assignments is “to enforce the intent of the parties,” id., Defendants misapply that 28 command here. To wit: the Klamath Lake Court rejected reading a snippet of text regarding the assignment’s purpose as definitive, and instead insisted that “the [assignment] must be read as a whole.” Id. (emphasis added). The court found implausible the argument that the assignors intended to reserve non-Sherman Act claims for later prosecution. Id. So too here. There is no reason whatsoever to conclude that assignor patients here sought to keep for themselves 29 U.S.C. § 1132(a)(2) claims when they specifically assigned “all” rights, including claims predicated on fiduciary breaches. Nor, for that matter, is there any reason to consider 29 U.S.C. § 1132(a)(2) claims somehow in tension with or unrelated to Form B’s
“purpose” of getting providers paid. See, infra 22-23 n.20.

<sup>20</sup> That makes good sense. Otherwise fiduciaries could disregard ERISA’s claims processes and face no sanction. And, Defendants’ suggestion notwithstanding, the removal of a fiduciary under 29 U.S.C. § 1132(a)(2) is directly related to ensuring fair and diligent claims handling—and therefore payment. The possible removal of

1 On this issue, Defendants insist that Plaintiffs reading of ERISA is wrong. Not 2 so. As Defendants correctly note, the ERISA claims regulations provide that ““this 3 section sets forth minimum requirements for employee benefit plan procedures
4 pertaining to claims for benefits by participants and beneficiaries (hereinafter
5 referred to as claimants)”” MTD at 27 (quoting 29 C.F.R. § 2560.503-1(a))
6 (emphasis added). What Defendants fail to note, however, is ERISA’s definition of 7 the term “beneficiary,” which includes persons who may become entitled to benefits.
8 See 29 U.S.C. § 1002(8) (“The term ‘beneficiary’ means a person designated by a 9 participant . . . who is or may become entitled to a benefit thereunder.”) (emphasis 10 added); 29 U.S.C. § 1002(9) (defining “person” to include any “corporation”).

11 For that reason, it is well-established that healthcare providers who submit 12 claims pursuant to an assignment of benefits acquire the status of “claimants” under 13 the claims regulations. See, e.g., Metcalf v. Blue Cross Blue Shield of Mich., No.
14 3:11-CV-1305-ST, 2013 WL 4012726, at *19 (D. Or. Aug. 5, 2013) (plaintiff-15 provider with assigned benefits deemed to have exhausted administrative remedies
16 under 29 C.F.R. § 2560.503-1 due to defendant’s unreasonable claim procedure;
17 Premier Health Ctr., P.C. v. UnitedHealth Grp., 292 F.R.D. 204, 224 (D. N.J. 2013)
18 (concluding overpayment recoupment letters sent to plaintiff-provider violated 19 29 C.F.R. § 2560.503-1).

20 Defendants assert that assignee-providers are never entitled to the procedural 21 protections of the ERISA claims regulations. MTD at 27-28. In support of that 22 assertion, Defendants cite a DOL FAQ, Grasso Enters., LLC v. Express Scripts, Inc., 23 809 F.3d 1033 (8th Cir. 2016), and Pa. Chiropractic Ass’n v. Indep. Hosp. Indem.
24 Plan, Inc., 802 F.3d 926, 928 (7th Cir. 2015). But none of those three authorities
25 remotely supports Defendants’ position.

26 _____
27 a fiduciary is a powerful tool, not only to promote the expeditious resolution of 28 existing disputes but to ensure, moving forward, that new fiduciaries will not play games—thus making provider payment, where deserved, more likely.

1 The DOL FAQ makes a general observation about when and how a beneficiary
2 might make someone an authorized representative to pursue a benefit appeal on a 3 beneficiary’s behalf.<sup>21</sup> It does not in any way represent the DOL’s position on the 4 assignment of claims either in this case or in general, nor is it an “interpretation” of 5 how assignees fare under the claims regulations.

6 Grasso simply held that providers are not direct ERISA beneficiaries “in their 7 own right.” 809 F.3d at 1040. Indeed, the court held that providers holding 8 assignments were entitled to pursue claims against plans, and were entitled to the 9 protection of claims regulations, as well as remedies for their violation. Id. at 1039.
10 And Pa. Chiropractic is completely irrelevant to the issue at hand. In that case, the 11 plaintiffs had no assignments from patients, nor any relationship with any plan. They 12 claimed they were beneficiaries based “on their contracts with an insurer [who was 13 not an ERISA plan].” 802 F.3d at 928. The court disagreed, and said nothing to 14 undermine the uncontroversial proposition that assignee-providers who assert claims 15 are, indeed, claimants for purposes of ERISA’s claims regulations.

16 In sum, Plaintiffs are unquestionably “claimants” for purposes of 29 C.F.R.
17 § 2560.503-1. And, as noted above, 29 C.F.R. § 2560.503-1 expressly provides that 18 any aggrieved claimant may bring a fiduciary breach claim under ERISA. See 19 29 C.F.R. § 2560.503-1(l) (“claimant shall be entitled to pursue any available 20 remedies under section 502 of [ERISA] . . . .”) (emphasis added).<sup>22</sup>

21 _____
22 <sup>21</sup> An authorized representative is different than an assignee. The former is 23 someone who the beneficiary has named to communicate on her behalf with the plan
24 regarding the claim. Misic, 789 F.2d at 1377. The latter is someone who is entitled 25 to themselves receive benefits. 29 C.F.R. § 2560.503-1(b)(4); Almont, 99 F. Supp. 3d at 1143 (citing Total Renal Care of N.C., L.L.C. v. Fresh Market, Inc., 2008 WL 623494, at *5-7 (M.D.N.C. Mar. 6, 2008) (authorized representatives sue “on behalf of” patients, whereas assignees file claims “in their own right”))

26 <sup>22</sup> None of the “assignment requires analysis of the intent of the parties” decisions
27 cited by Defendants, MTD at 12-14 (discussing cases)—undermines the plain text 28 of ERISA and its regulations discussed above. For example, the Ninth Circuit in Spinedex Physical Therapy USA Inc. v. United Healthcare of Arizona, Inc., 770 F.3d
1282 (9th Cir. 2014) cert. denied sub nom. United Healthcare of Arizona v. Spinedex Physical Therapy USA, Inc., 136 S. Ct. 317 (2015) certainly focused on whether the

1           C. Defendants’ “Anti-Assignment” and “Full Payment” Arguments
2           Have No Application to ERISA Fiduciary Claims.

3           To assert an ERISA benefits claim, a plaintiff must allege a colorable benefit
4 entitlement. See, e.g., 29 U.S.C. § 1002(8) (a beneficiary includes anyone 5 “designated by a participant [who] may become entitled to a benefit thereunder”). In 6 order for that beneficiary to win the ERISA benefits claim, that plaintiff must prove 7 an actual benefit entitlement. See 29 U.S.C. § 1132(a)(1)(B).

8           In resisting an ERISA benefits claim, a defendant may advance arguments to 9 show why, under the terms of the plan, the claimant is not actually entitled to the 10 benefit sought. Those arguments may include: (a) the claimant was not an eligible 11 plan member during the relevant time; (b) the claimant seeks a benefit (e.g., an 12 experimental drug) that is not covered by the plan; (c) the claimant failed to satisfy 13 a condition (e.g., the payment of a premium) of coverage; or (d) the claimant’s
14 position depends on an assignment the plan’s language specifically bars.<sup>23</sup>

15           In resisting Count I, Defendants have advanced this last (i.e., anti-assignment 16 clause) argument. MTD at 16-18. As explained above, Plaintiffs vigorously contest 17 Defendants’ position. See supra 13-16 (explaining that Defendants’ anti-assignment 18 defense fails or, at a minimum, cannot be resolved at the pleading stage). But as 19 explained next, that defense (irrespective of its merits) has no possible bearing on 20 Counts II or III.

21           To assert an ERISA fiduciary claim a plaintiff must allege a colorable benefit
22 entitlement. That threshold requirement applies to both benefit and fiduciary claims.

23 _____
24 parties intended to assign fiduciary claims. Id. at 1292. But that is because the only 25 justification plaintiffs offered for being able to bring fiduciary claims was 26 contractual, and the Ninth Circuit concluded the narrow language of the assignment at issue was wanting. Id. The court was not asked to consider the argument Plaintiffs present here.

27 <sup>23</sup> See, e.g., Kennedy v. Conn. Gen. Life Ins. Co., 924 F.2d 698, 700 (7th Cir. 1991)
28 (explaining that while an assignee is a beneficiary covered by ERISA the “assignee cannot collect unless he establishes that the assignment comports with the plan”).

1 When asserting an ERISA fiduciary claim, however, there is a second threshold
2 requirement: a plaintiff must also allege a colorable fiduciary violation (i.e., failure
3 to comply with ERISA’s benefit claims regulations).

4 In order for a beneficiary to win an ERISA fiduciary claim, that plaintiff must 5 prove an actual fiduciary violation. But, unlike with an ERISA benefit claim, the 6 plaintiff does not have any obligation to prove an actual benefit entitlement. Put 7 another way: a fiduciary breach claim may succeed even if the plaintiff’s benefit
8 claim fails because a fiduciary has breached procedural duties or otherwise engaged 9 in statutorily prohibited misconduct.<sup>24</sup> Put simply, all claimants are entitled to fair 10 procedures—even claimants whose benefits claims are likely to fail on the merits.
11 No ERISA decision has held to the contrary. The reason is obvious: transparent 12 procedures ensure the system’s legitimacy and promote efficiency.

13 This case is a perfect illustration. If fiduciaries of plans which expressly 14 authorize medical provider assignments had made any attempt to follow ERISA’s 15 procedures, they would have realized that they could not deny Plaintiffs’ claims on 16 anti-assignment grounds. If fiduciaries of plans with ambiguous (or otherwise 17 deficient) anti-assignment provisions, had made any attempt to follow ERISA’s
18 procedures, Plaintiffs would have been able to request missing documents and go 19 through the statutorily-mandated (non-adversarial) administrative process that the 20 United States Supreme Court has regularly noted is preferable to litigation.
21 Conkright v. Frommert, 559 U.S. 506, 517 (2010) (discussing advantages of standard 22

---

23 <sup>24</sup> Imagine, for example, that a participant has paid premiums for a life insurance
24 policy for years. Shortly before choosing to renew the policy for the coming year, 25 the participant asks the plan when the renewal election is due. The plan deliberately 26 misinforms the participant that the premium is due on January 31, instead of January 27 15 (the real due date specified in the plan). In reliance on the fiduciary’s advice, the 28 participant does not pay until January 31. When the participant dies later that year, and his beneficiary attempts to collect, that benefit claim would ultimately fail, because the premiums were not paid by the date the plan required. In such a case—where it is clear that the benefits claim will lose—the claimant is still entitled to seek a remedy for the fiduciary misconduct.

1 of deference in Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. v. Bruch, 489 U.S. 101 (1989); cf.
2 Heimeshoff v. Hartford Life & Accident Ins. Co., 134 S. Ct. 604, 613-14 (2013)
3 (explaining benefits of full-measure internal review process over extra time for 4 judicial review); Metro. Life Ins. Co. v. Glenn, 554 U.S. 105, 115 (2008) (noting
5 favorably “the particular importance of accurate [administrative] claims processing”
6 under ERISA).

7       And if fiduciaries of plans (if any) with valid and enforceable anti-assignment
8 provisions had made any attempt to follow ERISA’s procedures, Plaintiffs could 9 have addressed the issue (certainly with assignor-patients still residing in Plaintiffs’ 10 treatment facilities) likely avoiding the unnecessary and significant injury caused by 11 the previous misleading representations. FAC ¶ 71(e)(1)-(4) (detailing some of the 12 ways in which Plaintiffs could have taken remedial or preventative action during the 13 claims procedures but were deprived of the opportunity to do so by Defendants’ 14 failing).

15       Throughout the Omnibus Motion, Defendants imply that arguments about the 16 merits of Plaintiffs’ 29 U.S.C. § 1132(a)(1)(B) claim somehow undermine Plaintiffs’
17 fiduciary breach claims. They do not. A merits objection to a 29 U.S.C.
18 § 1132(a)(1)(B) claim does not authorize a fiduciary to ignore ERISA-mandated 19 procedures or to otherwise engage in ERISA-prohibited misconduct. Specifically:

20       Defendants argue that all of Plaintiffs’ ERISA claims (presumably including 21 Counts II and III) must be dismissed where the applicable plans prohibit 22 assignments. MTD at 16-21. That is simply false. The presence of an anti-assignment
23 provision (even one that is, ultimately, deemed enforceable) does not mean Plaintiffs 24 cannot pursue their benefit claims, and therefore cannot mean that Plaintiffs are not 25 entitled to fair procedure. That, and other fiduciary misconduct (not any contractual 26 entitlement) is the basis for Counts II and III of the FAC.

27
28

1 Defendants also seek to excuse their procedural misconduct by arguing that
2 there was no “adverse benefit determination” because Defendants, in their view,
3 directly paid the right parties, i.e., the patients. MTD at 26-27. But as explained
4 above (supra 21), any failure to pay Plaintiffs is squarely defined by the ERISA
5 regulations as an adverse benefit determination. See also 29 C.F.R. § 2560.503-
6 1(i)(4) (defining “adverse benefits determination”). Defendants conflate a benefit
7 defense with a fiduciary defense. If Defendants were entitled to pay Plaintiffs’
8 patients directly (they were not), then Plaintiffs’ benefit claim may fail.<sup>25</sup> But, by 9 failing to pay Plaintiffs, Defendants made an adverse benefits determination which 10 triggered procedural obligations that Defendant willfully failed to perform. And that 11 alleged failure states a textbook claim for fiduciary breach under ERISA.

12 D. Defendants’ Fiduciary Remedy Arguments Are Wrong.

13 Defendants argue that the remedies sought by Plaintiffs under Counts II and 14 III are unavailable. But Defendants misunderstand both what Plaintiffs seek and how 15 29 U.S.C. §§ 1132(a)(2) and (3) work.

16 Plaintiffs may seek “appropriate equitable relief” under 29 U.S.C. §
17 1132(a)(3) either as part of Count I or, if necessary, to obtain a direct monetary 18 recovery. As noted above (supra 17-19), misleading conduct on the part of 19 fiduciaries, whether in the claim handling context or otherwise, entitles plaintiffs to 20

21 <sup>25</sup> To be clear: Defendants were not so entitled. Notice of an assignment charges
22 the debtor with the obligation to make payment directly to the assignee. Metcalfe, 23 2013 WL 4012726, at *15. And a debt is discharged only by payment to the assignee.
24 Id. at *16. Were that not so, assignments (in any setting) would be worthless in 25 practice. The authorities cited by Defendants in support of the contrary position are 26 cases in which participants’ own benefits claims were considered resolved when the 27 fiduciary chose to pay the benefits in question. MTD at 28-29. See Filler v. Anthem
28 Blue Cross, No. CV 12-8960-CAS (JEMx), 2012 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 182356 (C.D.
Cal. Dec. 17, 2012); Silk v. Metro. Life Ins. Co., 310 F. App’x 138 (9th Cir. 2009);
Providence Health Plan v. McDowell, 361 F.3d 1243 (9th Cir. 2004); Lemons v.
Reliance Standard Life Ins. Co., 534 F. App’x 162 (3d Cir. 2013); Pakovich v.
Verizon, Ltd. Plan, 653 F.3d 488 (7th Cir. 2011). Obviously, those decisions do not support the argument that paying a third party extinguishes, in any way, the first party’s claim.

1 pursue “appropriate equitable relief” under 29 U.S.C. § 1132(a)(3), including the
2 equitable remedies of “reformation” and “estoppel.” CIGNA Corp. v. Amara, 563
3 U.S. 421 (2011). Reformation is appropriate “to remedy the false or misleading
4 information [the fiduciary] provided.” Id. at 1879. Estoppel holds a party to its words
5 when others relied on them to their detriment. Id. at 1880. As explained in detail
6 above (supra 17-19), the facts pled in the FAC will entitle Plaintiffs to both remedies
7 here. In addition, a successful claim under 29 U.S.C. § 1132(a)(3) will entitle a 8 plaintiff to directly “surcharge” the fiduciary for losses the beneficiary suffers 9 because of a fiduciary’s breach of duty. Id. at 1880. If necessary, that remedy will 10 also be available here. Plaintiffs were owed fair and transparent treatment under the 11 claims procedures. Had the Defendants complied, Plaintiffs would not have had to 12 spend hundreds of thousands of dollars in time and effort to understand why they 13 were not being paid for services that no one disputes they rendered in good faith.
14 Defendants should be surcharged accordingly.

15 Plaintiffs may seek important non-monetary “appropriate equitable relief”
16 under 29 U.S.C. § 1132(a)(3). As explained in the FAC, 29 U.S.C. § 1132(a)(3)
17 permits the imposition of non-monetary, injunctive relief aimed at curbing a 18 breaching fiduciary’s violative conduct moving forward. Plaintiffs here seek a court
19 order requiring Defendants to, when presented with a UB-04 form from Plaintiffs 20 indicating an assignment, treat that claim as one entitled to the procedural 21 protections of ERISA’s claims regulations, as well as additional procedures to ensure 22 Defendants hew to their general duties under ERISA. FAC ¶ 385; FAC at 280 (Prayer 23 for Relief).

24 Defendants’ argument that Varsity Corp v. Howe, 516 U.S. 489 (1996)
25 forecloses any 29 U.S.C. § 1132(a)(3) relief is frivolous. Defendants maintain that 26 Count III fails because “Plaintiffs’ claim for equitable relief does not allege an injury 27 separate and distinct from the alleged misdirection of payment giving rise to 28

1 Plaintiffs’ claim to recover benefits under 29 U.S.C. § 1132(a)(1)(B).” MTD at 30.
2 That assertion is frivolous. The FAC contains detailed allegations of fiduciary breach 3 (both misrepresentations and flagrant violations of ERISA’s claims regulations). See,
4 e.g., FAC ¶¶ 69-72, 76, 81-88, 92, 93. Defendants’ fiduciary misconduct caused an 5 injury separate and distinct from the denial of benefits. See, e.g., FAC ¶ 71. And as 6 explained at length above (supra 16-19), the remedy available under 29 U.S.C.
7 § 1132(a)(1)(B) may be wholly inadequate. In other words, reformation or estoppel
8 under 29 U.S.C. § 1132(a)(3) may be needed in order to avoid an anti-assignment
9 defense that would otherwise defeat Count I.

10 It is a bedrock principle of federal civil procedure that every plaintiff is 11 entitled to plead alternative theories of relief. Fed. R. Civ. P. 8(a)(3) (“A pleading 12 that states a claim for relief must contain . . . a demand for the relief sought, which 13 may include relief in the alternative or different types of relief.”); Fed. R. Civ. P. 18 14 (“A party asserting a claim . . . may join, as independent or alternative claims, as 15 many claims as it has against an opposing party.”). ERISA is, of course, no 16 exception. See, e.g., Amara, 563 U.S. at 438-45 (discussing the availability of relief 17 under § 1132(a)(3) after concluding that no relief was available under 18 § 1132(a)(1)(B)); Silva v. Metro. Life Ins. Co., 762 F.3d 711, 725-28 (8th Cir. 2014) 19 (“Variety does not limit the number of ways a party can initially seek relief at the 20 motion to dismiss stage.”) (“[A]t the motion to dismiss stage of litigation, we . . .
21 hold that [Plaintiff] is allowed to assert liability under [§ 1132(a)(1)(B) and 22 (a)(3)].”); Devlin v. Empire Blue Cross & Blue Shield, 274 F.3d 76, 89 (2d Cir. 2001)
23 (permitting both § 1132(a)(1)(B) and § 1132(a)(3) claims at the pleading stage).

24 Plaintiffs’ 29 U.S.C. § 1132(a)(2) claim does not fail as a matter of law as to 25 the ERISA Welfare Plan Defendants. Defendants argue that Plaintiffs’ 29 U.S.C.
26 § 1132(a)(2) claim—seeking to remove breaching fiduciaries—should be dismissed
27 because it would be “illogical” for Plaintiffs “to sue the very plans on whose behalf 28

1 they supposedly seek relief for breach of fiduciary duty.” MTD at 29.<sup>26</sup> Defendants
2 misstate the relevant law. Ninth Circuit authority allows Plaintiffs to name the plan
3 as a nominal defendant to the extent it effectuates attainment of the equitable relief
4 sought. In Acosta v. Pacific Enters., 950 F.2d 611 (9th Cir. 1991), amended on reh’g
5 (Jan. 23 1992) , the court of appeal held that, while in some instances naming a plan
6 as defendant is not appropriate, that “does not inexorably lead to the conclusion that 7 a plan cannot be properly named in a suit alleging breach of fiduciary duty.” 950
8 F.2d at 618. When doing so is a natural step in obtaining the sought relief, substance
9 trumps form. See, e.g., Solis v. Webb, 931 F. Supp. 2d 936 (N.D. Cal. 2012) (citing 10 Acosta and holding that having the plan as defendant in a suit alleging breach of 11 fiduciary duty was permissible as a means of allowing plaintiff to obtain the 12 complete relief sought). Thus, Plaintiffs’ naming plans as nominal defendants for the 13 sole purpose of removing a fiduciary is perfectly proper. Here, the profound failures
14 on the part of Defendants clearly justify fiduciary removal. Plaintiffs are confident 15 that discovery will confirm a sweeping range of fiduciary misconduct giving rise to 16 such a remedy.

17 III. There Is No Basis to Dismiss Count IV.

18 Defendants assert that Plaintiffs’ alternative state law claim fails on the 19 pleadings for three reasons. None is a credible basis for dismissal.

20 Defendants first argue that “because Plaintiffs’ claim under Section 17200 is 21 based on the same alleged [conduct] that forms the basis of Plaintiffs’ claims under 22 ERISA, the state law claim must be dismissed for the same reasons. MTD at 31.
23 Defendants are confused. Even if this Court accepted one of Defendants’ technical 24 “ERISA-specific” defenses (i.e., Plaintiffs never became an ERISA claimant with 25

---

26 <sup>26</sup> Defendants cite two out-of-circuit district court decisions (Kling v. Fidelity
27 Management Trust Co., 323 F. Supp. 2d 132 (2004) and Steinman v. Hicks, 252 F.
28 Supp. 2d 746 (C.D. Ill. 2003), aff’d, 352 F.3d 1101 (7th Cir. 2003)) for this proposition. MTD at 29-30.

1 the statutory right to sue), the underlying allegations of misconduct in the FAC easily
2 state an independent claim under state law. And conspicuously absent from the 3 Omnibus Motion is any acknowledgment of the extensive details in the FAC
4 regarding how “the pattern and practice of the Blue Cross Defendants . . . has caused
5 Plaintiffs to suffer direct and independent injury in violation of state law.” FAC ¶ 71 6 (emphasis added).

7 Defendants next argue that “Plaintiffs fail to state a Section 17200 [sic]
8 because the conduct alleged by Plaintiffs is neither unlawful, nor unfair, within the 9 meaning of the statute . . . .” MTD at 31. Not so.

10 As this Court has observed, the UCL defines “unfair competition” as “any 11 unlawful, unfair, or fraudulent business act or practice” and because it is written in 12 the disjunctive, “a practice is prohibited as unfair or deceptive even if not unlawful 13 and vice versa.” Valdez v. JPMorgan Chase Bank, N.A., No. EDCV 11-0935 DOC 14 (DTBx), 2012 WL 995278, at *10 (C.D. Cal. Mar. 20, 2012) (citing UCL and Rubio
15 v. Capital One Bank, 613 F.3d 1195, 1203 (9th Cir. 2010)) (internal quotation marks 16 omitted and emphasis added). The UCL affords standing to any private party who 17 has suffered injury and has lost money or property as a result of the unfair
18 competition. See Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 17204 (emphasis added).

19 Unlawful. Defendants argue that Plaintiffs have no claim under this prong 20 because the “FAC fails to allege a violation of any ‘borrowed’ law.” MTD at 31.
21 Defendants are wrong. The extensive and detailed allegations in the FAC clearly 22 describe a business practice of Defendants that is forbidden by numerous California
23 laws.<sup>27</sup> Perhaps the simplest example is California’s prohibition against constructive 24 fraud. See, e.g., Cal. Civ. Code § 1573 (“Constructive fraud consists . . . in any 25

26 <sup>27</sup> “The ‘unlawful’ prong of the UCL borrows violations from other statutes or 27 common-law causes of action and means ‘anything that can properly be called a 28 business practice and that at the same time is forbidden by law.’” Anderson v. PHH
Mortgage, No. SACV 12-01192-CJC, 2012 WL 4496341, at *4 (C.D. Cal. Sept. 28, 2012) (quoting Bank of the West v. Super. Ct., 2 Cal. 4th 1254 (1992)).

1 breach of duty which, without an actually fraudulent intent, gains an advantage to 2 the person in fault . . . by misleading another to his prejudice.”). The FAC alleges
3 every element of constructive fraud. See, e.g., FAC ¶¶ 2, 3, 77, 78, 79, and 80
4 (summarizing the Blue Cross scheme); FAC ¶¶ 43, 45(c), 69, 70, and 71(a)-(d)
5 (explaining the specific misconduct of Blue Cross); FAC ¶ 71(e) (explaining how 6 Plaintiffs were misled to their prejudice by Blue Cross who, in turn, gained a 7 significant advantage).<sup>28</sup>

8 Unfair. It is beyond any serious dispute that the behavior alleged in the FAC
9 is “unfair” within the meaning of the UCL.<sup>29</sup> Misleading providers about the 10 assignability of claims, refusing to consider those claims when later presented, 11 refusing to consult the operative contracts governing the entitlement in question, and 12 then sending the money to someone else—all in a bid to drive providers in-13 network—obviously qualifies as “unfair” under any test. Cf. Smith v. Chase Mortg.
14 Credit Group, 653 F. Supp. 2d 1035, 1045-46 (E.D. Cal. 2009).<sup>30</sup>

15 _____
16 <sup>28</sup> The FAC’s allegations also make out a claim for outright fraud. See Marolda v.
17 Symantec Corp., 672 F. Supp. 2d 992, 997 (N.D. Cal. 2009) (explaining elements of 18 fraud are misrepresentation, knowledge of falsity, intent to induce reliance, 19 justifiable reliance and damage). And they also likely constitute violations of 20 numerous other California statutes. See, e.g., Cal. Ins. Code § 10133 (prohibiting an 21 insurer from attempting to control, direct and participate in the selection of the health 22 facilities of its PPO members).

23 <sup>29</sup> The Supreme Court of California has long held that a broad conception of 24 “unfair” is necessary to effectuate the UCL’s purpose: “it would be impossible to 25 draft in advance detailed plans and specifications of all acts and conduct to be 26 prohibited . . . since unfair or fraudulent business practices may run the gamut of 27 human ingenuity and chicanery.” Mosk v. Nat’l Research Co. Cal., 201 Cal. App. 2d 28 765, 772 (1962). See also Kwikset Corp. v. Super. Ct., 51 Cal. 4th 310, 320 (2011) (UCL framed in “broad, sweeping language” to provide “courts with broad equitable powers to remedy violations”).

<sup>30</sup> Defendants claim “unfairness” only refers to “conduct that relates to . . . a violation of any antitrust law or which threatens or harms competition.” MTD at 31-32. But that is not what Defendants’ sole case, Cel-Tech Commc’ns, Inc. v. Los Angeles Cellular Tel. Co., 20 Cal. 4th 163 (1999), says. In Cel-Tech, the dispute was between direct competitors, so the Court accordingly explained what “unfair” would mean in that context, i.e., “[w]hen a plaintiff who claims to have suffered injury from a direct competitor’s ‘unfair’ act or practice.” Id. at 187 (emphasis added). The Cel-
Tech “rule” simply does not apply where, as here, the parties are not direct competitors.

1 Indeed, California courts routinely hold that disputes between independent
2 providers like Plaintiffs and health plans and insurance companies like Defendants
3 are properly litigated under the UCL. See, e.g., Coast Plaza Doctors Hosp. v. UHP
4 Healthcare, 105 Cal. App. 4th 693, 696, 705-06 (2002); Bell v. Blue Cross of Cal.,
5 131 Cal. App. 4th 211, 214-18 (2005). Nor is there any question that providers may 6 having standing to bring such claims. See Coast Plaza, 105 Cal. App. 4th 693 at 205-
7 06; Bell, 131 Cal. App. 4th 211 at 216-18; In re Webkinz Antitrust Litig., 695 F. Supp.
8 2d 987 (N.D. Cal. 2010).<sup>31</sup> The FAC’s allegations plainly state Plaintiffs’ direct
9 injuries, including lost money, as a result of Defendants’ misconduct. See, e.g., FAC
10 ¶¶ 374; Kwikset, 51 Cal. 4th at 322-23, 326.

11 Finally, Defendants argue that Plaintiffs’ statutory unfair competition claim is 12 preempted by ERISA because it “necessarily relates to the ERISA-governed plans
13 at issue.” MTD at 32. Not so. Plaintiffs expressly assert their unfair competition 14 claims in their own right—i.e., as victims of Defendants’ misleading conduct about 15 the conditions under which providers qua providers would be paid—and not as an 16 assignee of Defendants’ insureds. FAC ¶ 388. It is well-established that ERISA does 17 not preempt California unfair competition claims in which the provider sues “as a 18 third party claiming damages, and not as an assignee of rights to benefits.” Cedars-
19 Sinai Med. Ctr. v. Nat’l League of Postmasters of the United States, 497 F.3d 972, 20 978 (9th Cir. 2007). Because such claims concern the relationships between 21 providers and insurers (and not, in any meaningful way, the regulation of employee

22 _____
23 <sup>31</sup> Defendants’ suggestion that providers necessarily lack standing relies on two 24 unreported decisions that lack persuasive weight. MTD at 32 n.10. In the unreported 25 case Centre for Neuro Skills v. Blue Cross of Cal., the Court dismissed with leave to 26 amend, plaintiff’s claim under the unfair prong of the UCL and denied the motion to 27 dismiss plaintiff’s claim under the unlawful prong. No. 1:13-CV-00743-LJ0-JLT, 2013 WL 5670889, at *1 (E.D. Cal. Oct. 15, 2013). And in Almasi v. Equilon Enters.,
LLC, plaintiffs had not identified any facts supporting their unfair competition claim.
No. 5:10-CV-03458-EJD, 2012 WL 3945528, at *10 (N.D. Cal. Sept. 10, 2012)
 (“[P]laintiffs have failed to cite to any materials in the record demonstrating that a genuine dispute exists.”) (on motion for summary judgment).

1 benefit plans), the involvement of a plan does not trigger ERISA preemption. See
2 Marin Gen'l Hosp. v. Modesto & Empire Traction Co., 581 F.3d 941 (9th Cir. 2009)
3 (no preemption where provider sought relief based on its own relationship with 4 ERISA plan); Meadows v. Emps. Health Ins., 47 F.3d 1006 (9th Cir. 1995) (provider
5 permitted to pursue state-law action).

6 IV. Plaintiffs' Jury Trial Demand Should Not Be Stricken.

7 Plaintiffs agree that none of its three ERISA claims (nor its UCL claim) is 8 triable by jury. That does not mean, however, that the jury trial demand be stricken.
9 The FAC's detailed factual allegations regarding the Blue Cross Defendants' pattern
10 and practice of misconduct give rise to independent (i.e., non-preempted) state-law 11 claims such as constructive fraud. While those state-law claims may be borrowed as 12 a predicate for Plaintiffs' statutory unfair competition claim (for which Plaintiffs do 13 not seek a jury trial), those claims may also be asserted as independent bases for 14 relief; if so, Plaintiffs are entitled to a jury trial. Raedeke v. Gibraltar Sav. & Loan
15 Ass'n, 10 Cal. 3d 665, 671 (1974) (en banc) ("a suit to recover damages for fraud 16 . . . is an action at law in which a right to jury trial ordinarily exists.") (citations 17 omitted).<sup>32</sup>

18 CONCLUSION

19 For the reasons set forth above, the Court should deny Defendants' omnibus 20 motion in its entirety.

21

22

23

---

24 <sup>32</sup> The Federal Rules require only that a complaint pleads facts sufficient to state
25 a claim. See supra n.2. In any event, Plaintiffs request leave to re-plead should their 26 complaint, in this respect (or any other raised by Defendants) be technically 27 insufficient. In accordance with Fed. R. Civ. P. 15(a), the Ninth Circuit has long had 28 a liberal policy favoring amendments. DeSoto v. Yellow Freight Sys., Inc., 957 F.2d 655, 658 (9th Cir. 1992). See also Manzarek v. St. Paul Fire & Marine Ins. Co., 519
F.3d 1025, 1031 (9th Cir. 2008) (leave to amend should only be denied if amendment is certain to be futile).

1 DATED: March 21, 2016

STRIS & MAHER LLP

2

By: /s/ Peter K. Stris

3

Peter K. Stris

4

Attorneys for Plaintiffs

5

DUAL DIAGNOSIS TREATMENT

6

CENTER, INC., et al.

7

8

9

10

11

12

13

14

15

16

17

18

19

20

21

22

23

24

25

26

27

28